COLONIAL AMNESIA: QUO VADIS, HAMBURG?

THE OVAHERERO AND NAMA GENOCIDE AND HAMBURG'S COLONIAL HISTORY

2. TRANSNATIONAL HERERO AND NAMA CONGRESS

FROM APRIL 5TH TO 8TH, ON THE MS STUBNITZ AND IN THE UNIVERSITY OF HAMBURG

The negotiation of Hamburg's difficult colonial past is receiving growing attention. Hamburg's complicity in the history of racism includes participation in the transatlantic slave trade and a central role in Germany's colonial empire - and has significant contemporary implications. The city's involvement in facilitating the Ovaherero and Nama genocides between 1904 and 1908 marks a heavy historic burden.

How did Hamburg contribute to the first genocide of the 20th century? Which urban traces continue to glorify colonialism and genocide, and what about the city's many "blind spots" of colonial memory? After a first congress in October 2016 in Berlin, the Nama and Herero representatives will visit Hamburg to discuss these and other questions.

Hosting organisation: Initiative Schwarze Menschen in Deutschland Bund e.V. and Rosa Luxemburg Stiftung Hamburg and in
